NEWS RELEASE 6.8.09

BG Controls appoints Operational Director to head up South East division

Building controls expert BG Controls continues its expansion by announcing the opening of a new office in West Sussex. This will be headed up by new Operations Director, Mark Bone.

Mark – aged 42 from Brighton - joins BG Controls with excellent product and systems knowledge and vast industry experience. This has been gained from 15 years in managerial and engineering roles with Clanfield Systems Ltd, Trend Controls Systems, Labtech International Ltd and most recently, DWEC. In his new position, Mark will be responsible for sales and business development as well as taking on project management roles to serve and develop BG's growing South East customer base.

"I'm looking forward to the challenge of working for an expanding business like BG," says Mark. "BG has a reputation as a market leader in the BMS industry particularly because of its broad product offering and innovative solutions for its customers. I will be working with new and existing customers throughout the region to address their needs and apply the solutions to meet them."

"I would like to welcome Mark to the team," says Duncan Biggins, BG Controls' Managing Director. "His experience and ability will support the company's presence in the South East and help to develop this further." Mark lives in Sussex and is married with a 20-month old daughter. In between changing nappies, he is a keen golfer and likes to watch a variety of different sports including rugby.
