BG Controls expands with new Belfast office

Building controls expert BG Controls, has strengthened its UK presence by opening an office in Belfast. John Roberts has been appointed to the position of Regional Support Manager and heads up the Belfast operation.

John – aged 46 from Belfast - joins BG Controls with considerable commercial experience and product knowledge. This has been gained from 20 years in building management roles with JEL, ADT Fire & Security, Andover Controls, VIS Security and most recently, SLA Building Controls. John will manage the Northern Ireland division of BG Controls, providing both technical and business leadership.

“I’m looking forward to my new role at BG Controls. I will be working with a team that I know and trust. I’m confident that I will be able to deliver a high quality customer service to a new and developing customer base,” says John.

BG Controls’ managing director, Duncan Biggins, said: “John is an extremely well qualified controls engineer, who brings with him a wealth of technical expertise. His industry experience will be of great benefit to our Belfast expansion.”
